Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and when applied to cuts, bruises and burns, causes them to heal without maturation and much more quickly than by the usual treatment.

For sale by All Druggists.

The county clerk of our county has received a letter from the Arid Land Reclamation Committee asking for information in relation to the reservoir sites in Iron county, and the inducements there are in this county for the storing of water for irrigation purposes. Whatever facilities there are should be shown up. Any information in the possession of J. H. McDonald's drug store.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The Automobile is on its way down here and has got as far as Richfield.

Driven To Desperation.

Life at an out of the way place is a hard one. A family located in the mountains in case of accident resulting in burns, wounds, etc., has in a supply of Bucklin's Ointment the best on earth. See J. H. McDonald's drug store.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are just what you need when you have no appetite, feel dull after eating and wake up with a bad taste in your mouth. They will improve your appetite, cleanse and invigorate your stomach and give you a relish for your food.

A lawyer wife and daughter packed out for Deep Creek Monday morning where they expect to engage in the manufacture of butter and cheese. The summer that is the family will be William takes of changing from a lawyer to a farmer, and doing something

In Justice Court.

Justice Abelson passed a trial of young gentlemen through his mill today, who went to the court to be tried. An aggravated case of breach of the peace was the pretext upon which this milling was based, but no more such paying propositions are in sight.

A letter to his parents from Elder J. C. Parry, who has been preaching in the state of Ohio, informs them that he has been transferred to Huntington West Virginia, and that he will not be likely to be released to come home until fall. Elder Parry seems well contented to remain in the mission field as long as he is wanted.

Stephen Smith called in our office Monday and got a copy of The Record. He took it with him to Asidown's saw mill where he expects to help to make lumber this summer. Stephen looked as sick as a new stove pipe hat, but will bet a chew of gum that he will not look that way after he has worked a month, without a good deal of scrubbing and scraping.

The editor of the Richfield Reeper says that he has had an ad. in his paper for several days calling for a boy to learn the printing trade, and wants to know what is the matter that no applications for the position have been made. We can tell him what's the matter, the boys are all too busy preparing to get an education, so that they can teach school or get hold of some other soft snap that will save their muscles, at ten dollars a day. See?

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I suffered unendurable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the pain was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was talking. He could not sleep for a fortnight, but the little bottle worked a complete cure. He cannot help but feel grateful in this case for bowel disorders. See J. H. McDonald's drug store.

Stateline Oracle.

The Johnny mine is acting in a way to make its owners feel proud these days. In sinking the shaft, every car of dirt goes to the mill and the way it horns is enough to make the old time prospector green with envy. Even the water that is hoisted to the top runs away up in gold—or the red dirt does. More men are being added to their force daily and every miner that comes to the camp succeeds in getting a job which by the way, speaks well for the camp. As a matter of fact, good miners, not farmers, are in demand at Stateline, and before many moons they can't come into the camp fast enough.

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Stateline Echo, June 1st.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1890, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claims, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat gave him a very severe diarrhoea when it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the pain was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was talking. He could not sleep for a fortnight, but the little bottle worked a complete cure. He cannot help but feel grateful in this case for bowel disorders. See J. H. McDonald's drug store.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Last Tuesday night about eleven o'clock Elder Robert Bulloch crossed the bridge that separates the mortal from the immortal and passed to the great beyond. For over fifty years Robert Bulloch has been a well known figure in Cedar City and Iron county affairs, and his departure leaves a void that will be plainly apparent. As a member of the high council, a city councillor, and in various other responsible positions he has endeavored to discharge the duties of a citizen and a church member to the best of his ability. It would require much more space than we have to space to do justice to Elder Bulloch's memory. Less than a year and a half since he departed on a mission to Scotland, the land of his nativity. Although advanced in years, he had no hesitation about responding to the call that had been made upon him, indeed he hailed with joy the opportunity of proclaiming the gospel as he understood it to his countrymen. While away, until a few weeks since, he enjoyed the best of health and had unbounded satisfaction in his missionary labors. But he took cold, and was attacked by what they call in that country the influenza, but which we call lagrippe, and was obliged to be released from his work to return home. People who saw him start to cross the ocean on his return, predicted that he would not live to reach the American shore but although very ill he was spared to get to his home, and still had strong hopes that he would be restored to health. But providence decreed it otherwise. Elder Bulloch was 65 years old, and leaves a wife 3 sons, and six daughters and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

His funeral which took place yesterday was attended by a large concourse of his townspeople, and it is seldom if ever that any one is spoken of in terms of higher commendation than was the deceased. The speakers were Richard Palmer, Francis Webster, C. J. Arthur, Henry Leigh, and Bishop H. W. Lunt. With the exception of the bishop the speakers had all known deceased for nearly fifty years, and were agreed in saying that he possessed the virtues of our race in a marked degree, and was in a comparatively few words a perfect man. Bishop Lunt complimented the encomiums by saying that he knew of no man who was better prepared to die than deceased. The tabernacle was draped for the occasion in an exceedingly tasteful and appropriate manner and a large and excellent band, the band of Elder Bulloch which was placed in front of the pulpit or stand, seemed to listen attentively to the words of praise and appreciation which fell from the lips of his old friends and neighbors. We would not forget, however, the thought that if some of the praises that were so liberally bestowed, had been spoken during the life of the subject of them, it might have done him more good than to say them over his coffin. However, better late than never.

Fine Entertainment.

The Stellar Theatre Company deserved more liberal patronage than they received last night in the Opera House. The play which they presented is an excellent one, full of interesting situations, and of a good moral character, and looks nothing at the hands of the company. We have never seen the work of this troupe excelled in our city. Indeed elsewhere. The rather small audience showed unbounded appreciation and we predict that they will have no cause to complain of the house not being packed tonight. In times past we have in some instances had cause for complaint in the case of some of these traveling troupes of the vulgar tendency of the plays they presented; but in this respect this company seems to be above par. However we cannot say as much as that for some of the costuming and staging which they did, which while very wise was too suggestive along the lines of vulgarity. So be just the kind of stuff that you would like your wife or daughter to hear especially in the presence of a crowd of young fellows who are prepared to make the most of the suggestive. The entertainment that this company put up last night was long enough, and good enough for the money without these suggestive interludes, and we take the liberty of recommending them, while they are amongst us, to cut them out, or replace them with something more up to the standard of these dramas. This company bears the rather unusual reputation of keeping the best plays for the last performance. In every town they visit.

The 5th of July will be two days long at Milford this year, and the lively little burg is going to put up an entertainment that will depopulate the surrounding settlements on Independence day, or days. Two persons are more to blame for this than any one else and they are the editor of the Milford Times and Senator A. H. Lewis. The Times man has succeeded in enticing his readers to that extent that they believe that it would be an insult to the Goddess of Liberty, to put her off with one little day in a town with so great a future, and Senator Lewis' liberality, and progressiveness has stimulated every man of heart in the community to go down in his pocket to amuse and make it possible to have such a time. In all probability one foremost sport, Mr. Andrew Corry, will be over here to bring home the $500, that his horse is to win by outrunning the "Atlin" mare; as we learn that arrangements are being made for a race between the two animals.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Harmony Happenings.

June 24th 1903.

John Price, Wm. Watts, and Frank Price are in town for a rest.

Wm. Watts and wife, James F. Price, and John Price went to Cedar Wednesday on business.

Up. Wm. A. Redd returned from St. George Tuesday where he had been to interview the Board of equalization.

Joseph A. Prince came in from the sheephead Wednesday on account of the illness of his baby, but it is better now.

Patriotism seems to be a scarce article here. No preparations have been made for the celebration of the "Fourth."

Haying is on and prospects for a heavy yield in the most of fields is good. Grasshopper have done damage in some parts however.

Development work on the coal prospects north of here is being vigorously prosecuted under the direction of Mr. Kicker, who expects a visit early next month from some Chicago coal magnates.

Parowan Promptings

June 24th, 1903.

Conferences passed off quietly. A fair attendance of Cedar friends helped to increase the large congregation. None of the higher church officers were present.

Although the season seemed backward the crops look well. Haying is in full blast. We are very thankful to see our country looking so prosperous, after the long drouth which we have had.

Mrs. Lucy Stevens died here last Saturday evening after a short illness. She was born in Wymondham England about 55 years ago, and leaves a large family to mourn her loss. A good and amply lady.

There are some "Strolling Players" here, whose business, as is the case with the rest of us, is to gather in the shekels. They have not recognized the representative of the press and therefore we know but little about them.

Leeds Locals.

June 24, 1903.

Apricots are ripe.

M. E. Paris has gone to Lund for merchandise.

Preparations are in progress for the celebration of the 4th of July.

Clarence McMullin went to Stateline last week where he expects to remain during the summer.

Miss Minnie Hamon has been taking care of Mrs. Hamilton at Silver Reef, who is sick, this week.

A lad with his arm in a sling, and carrying a printed plan for alms was visiting the houses of the Leeds folks the other day. His traveling companions appeared to be two able bodied men in a fine buggy drawn by a pair of fat horses. Needless to say the contributions under such circumstances were but large.

Summit Sumups.

June 24, 1903.

Haying has begun.

Miss Sadie Hales from Junction is in town visiting relatives.

With Ernest Dalley as choir Director the church singing is being much improved.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by J. H. McDonald Druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.
